

00:00:00	Music	Transition	Gentle, trilling music with a steady drumbeat plays under the dialogue.
00:00:01	Promo	Promo	Speaker: Bullseye with Jesse Thorn is a production of MaximumFun.org and is distributed by NPR.
00:00:13	Music	Transition	[Music fades out.] “Huddle Formation” from the album Thunder, Lightning, Strike by The Go! Team. A fast, upbeat, peppy song. Music plays as Jesse speaks, then fades out.
00:00:27	Jesse Thorn	Host	It’s Bullseye . I’m Jesse Thorn. Time now, for The Song That Changed My Life . It’s a segment where musicians reach back—sometimes way, way back—to tell us about the music that made them who they are today. [Music fades in.]
00:00:43	Music	Music	And this week, our guest is Buddy Guy. “Damn Right, I’ve Got the Blues” from the album Damn Right, I’ve Got the Blues by Buddy Guy. You’re damn right, I’ve got the blues From my head down to my shoes You’re damn right, I’ve got the blues From my head down to my shoes
00:01:00	Jesse	Host	[Volume decreases and continues under the dialogue then fades out.] You probably know this already, but Buddy is one of the world’s greatest blues guitarists. He’s won eight Grammy awards. He’s been in the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame since 2005. [Music fades in.]
00:01:18	Music	Music	He’s performed for presidents, he’s shared stages with BB King and Howlin’ Wolf and even Muddy Waters. “Messin’ With the Kid” by Buddy Guy. We’ll take the kid’s car and drive around town Tell everybody you’re not putting him down Oh yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah
00:01:35	Jesse	Host	[Volume decreases and continues under the dialogue then fades out.] Recently, Buddy guy announced his farewell tour. Well-earned over a half a century in the game. We got in touch with Buddy at his home studio in Chicago. And when we asked him about the song that changed his life, he took us back to his childhood in Louisiana and the first time he heard John Lee Hooker’s “Boogie Chillen”. Here’s Buddy Guy.
00:01:58	Buddy Guy	Guest	Hi. I’m Buddy Guy and this is one of the songs that changed my life. The first time I heard “Boogie Chillen”, I must have been about 14 or 15 years old. It took a while for my dad to get a radio. And they had a radio station coming out of Tennessee—WLAC. [Music fades in.]

00:02:25	Music	Music	And I'm pretty sure "Boogie Chillen" was probably the first electric guitar that I ever heard. "Boogie Chillen" from the album John Lee Hooker: Boogie Chillen by John Lee Hooker. Well, my mama, she didn't allow me Just to stay out all night long Oh Lord
00:02:48	Buddy	Guest	[Volume decreases and continues under the dialogue.] I had never seen an electric car before. The first electric guitar I'd ever seen, there was a guy—blues guy named Lightning Slim. And he came out in Lettsworth, Louisiana, and plugged that thing up on the storefront store. And I thought it was a joke. When he plugged it in, and that little amplifier started coming through. And I said, "Now, I don't know what this is, but whatever this is, I would love to have a piece of that or learn something about that." And I got a chance to meet him before he died! And learn a few things from him. We didn't have electricity, so we didn't have records. The only music we had was a lot of gospel. And what we would do, we'd work all day from sunup to sundown. We didn't have air conditioning. It was so hot. And the only fun we had, we'd go out there with mosquitos and things and just hum and sing gospel stuff. And I wasn't the only one doing it, but I was the only one that kept it after I got a chance to get my hands on a guitar. That beat there was like something new. And I'm like saying to myself, "What the hell is this, now? Whatever this is, I want a—I want a piece of it."
00:04:15	Music	Music	[Volume increases.] I didn't care what she didn't allow I would boogie-woogie anyhow
00:04:33	Buddy	Guest	[Volume decreases and continues under the dialogue.] I got my first guitar when I was about 13 or 14. What went through my mind, if I could learn how to do that? I would be the only guy—'cause you couldn't look up and say, "If I learn how to do that, I'm gonna make a good living at it." Because John Lee and all those guys in the early days, they wasn't making a hell of a lot of money. No Black guy was making money. They were playing for the love of music and the love of a drink. And if you could play good enough, you got you a good-looking woman. [Chuckles.] So, that's what all you had to look at, back then. And I said, "If I could learn how to play that, I'm gonna be like a sore thumb among the other kids around me. I'm gonna be able to do something nobody else—none of these other kids gonna be able to do." There wasn't no school for to teach me how to play the guitar, so I got to learn this myself. But there was one guy they would go get every Christmas. And his name was Henry Smiths but we called him Coot. And he could play the Lonnie Johnson stuff. And on Christmas morning, if we was able to get a toy—I used to have to make my toys, 'cause we was just that poor. And they would get a case of beer and a gallon of wine, and they'd go from house to house, Christmas Eve night to Christmas night—house to house in the country and drinking and loving it. Every time the guitar player would get real high and go to sleep, I would go get the guitar and try to figure out what the hell he was doing. Yeah, it took me quite a while to learn how to play "Boogie Chillen". I can't tell you whether it was a month or two months or six months.

00:06:10	Music	Music	[Volume increases.]
00:06:28	Buddy	Guest	[Volume decreases and continues under the dialogue.] And when I finally locked my fingers in on "Boogie Chillen", I didn't move 'cause you didn't have to move your fingers. You stayed at one spot and just rapped it. And I learned it and I would—by myself and didn't nobody—couldn't nobody else hear it. So, I just got up and I'd walk, and I'd say, "I want somebody to hear this in case I can't find this anymore." And I didn't know if I was gonna be able to find it again. So, I walked about five miles to my first cousin—one of my first cousins said, "Boy, you got it!"
			And I said, "But I'm afraid to quit 'cause I ain't gonna be able to find it no more!" But I found it again. I had it and I didn't ever lose that again. That "Boogie Chillen" carried me 'til today and I can still play it today.
00:07:14	Music	Music	[Volume increases.] I was walking down Hasting's Street I heard everybody talking about the Henry Swing Club I decided I'd drop in there that night
00:07:29	Buddy	Guest	[Volume decreases and continues under the dialogue.] And see, that amplifier he's playing through now—you can't get that tone no more because they made them bigger and better looking, but that tone he got there now is hard to get. I don't even know if you can find that anymore on an amplifier.
			A lot of Black people in those days were dancing called the boogie-woogie. They did the boogie on stuff like that, and he hit it right on time when he said, "Boogie chillen."
00:08:05	Music	Music	[Volume increases.] Boogie chillen
00:08:13	Buddy	Guest	[Volume decreases and continues under the dialogue.] We'd be in one of those old juke joints. Everybody in there was boogieing, man. Down to the floor, man. Swinging them gals from one end of the club to the other.
			You know, I got a chance to meet him and play with him before he passed away. And this is one of the highlights of my career.
00:08:38	Music	Music	[Volume increases.] One night I was laying down I heard Mama and Papa talking [Volume decreases and continues under the dialogue then fades out.]

00:08:48	Buddy	Guest	You might not know this, but John Lee Hooker had a stutter, and his whole life—when he was speaking; when he was singing, he did not have it. But there was a town in Germany called Baden-Baden, Germany. It’s still there. So, I got a tour to go there with Horst Lippman. They were a folk blues festival. They had a television show, and everybody was drinking pretty heavily, including John Lee Hooker, Big Mama Thornton, and people like that. And the guide, the promoter, looked at me and said, “I want you to do me a favor. I’m gonna give you $50 a week to make sure everybody’s up and ready to catch the bus.” And they was down in the lobby of the hotel this particular morning. So, I knew John Lee Hooker and Big Mama was there and I never did meet them here, in the United States.
			So, I said, “I just can’t wait to see John Lee Hooker!” And I didn’t know he stuttered. So, when I got downstairs that morning, I heard a lot of noise and there was talking and having fun and so I just picked up the acoustic guitar and went to sit in the corner and started hitting “Boogie Chillen”.
			["Boogie Chillen" plays in the background.]
			And this guy came over and punched me on the shoulder and started laughing. Said, “D-d-d-d-d-you—you—you’re playing Johnny!”
			I said, “Yeah.” And I’m like saying [laughs], “I don’t wanna talk to you. I just wanna get attention to John Lee Hooker, wherever he is!” You know? And finally, Big Mama came over and she was laughing and crying out of one eye. Said, “That’s John Lee!”
			But I said, “John Lee?! This is not John Lee sounding like this!” And he started laughing and crying.
			He said, “I’m Johnny.”
			I said, “I was looking for John Lee.” And that’s when they fell out laughing and said, “This is John Lee Hooker.” And we were friends until he passed away.
00:10:37	Music	Music	[Volume increases.]
			Boogie chillen
			[Volume decreases and continues under the dialogue.]
00:10:57	Buddy	Guest	I tried to get all the info I could from him and other people, how he made “Boogie Chillen”. Because back then, I don’t think you had too many producers trying to tell him how to play. Matter of fact, [chuckles] I don’t think he would let you tell him how to play! ‘Cause he just said—“I’m playing John Lee! I don’t care if you like it or not!”
00:11:22	Music	Music	[Volume increases.]
			I heard Papa tell Mama to let that boy boogie-woogie ‘Cause it’s in him and it got to come out Well, I felt so good And I went on boogie-woogieing just the same Yeah

00:11:42	Buddy	Guest	[Volume decreases and continues under the dialogue.] When I first saw John Lee Hooker play it live, for me that was a dream come true that I never dreamed of. And I didn't ever think the guitar could bring me from there to here, talking to you today. Then you would hear some of the people who was really falling in love with it like me say, "Play that again, man!" You know. "That sounds so nice, you need to play it twice!"
00:12:16	Music	Music	[Volume increases.] Yes, I know Boogie chillen
00:12:26	Buddy	Guest	[Volume decreases and continues under the dialogue.] Never be another one like that one. Every time I hear that, that takes me back to 12, 13, or 14 years old and, Buddy, you must have spent a lot of to try to be—sound similar to him or learned something—learned something from him by listening to him. And I was blessed to meet him before he died. And I was blessed to meet most of the guys that I learned everything from. I didn't learn nothing from a book. I learned it from listening and watching those guys, the way that they used their fingers and the way they—ain't no way in the world that I could sing like him, because they—when you hear him sing, man, that's a natural voice. When you hear Howlin' Wolf, that was natural. When you hear BB King and Bobby Bland, that was natural! When you hear Buddy Guy, it might be a little fake thing going on, because I'll be trying to copy them all. [Laughs.]
00:13:29	Music	Music	["Boogie Chillen" ends.] "We Go Back" from the album The Blues Don't Lie by Buddy Guy. Cup of coffee costs a nickle [Volume decreases and continues under the dialogue then fades out.]
00:13:42	Jesse	Host	Buddy Guy on the song that changed his life, "Boogie Chillen", by John Lee Hooker. Buddy Guy's farewell tour kicks off next month. We'll have dates on the Bullseye page at MaximumFun.org. Let's go out on a song from Buddy Guy. This one's from his most recent record, The Blues Don't Lie. It's called "We Go Back", and it features another Chicago legend, Mavis Staples.
00:14:04	Music	Music	[Volume increases.] ... was everywhere We go back Fighting hard to get our share Times were bad, what a time we had We go back, way, way back On a balcony in Memphis April 1968 I never will forget What happened on that date

00:14:48	Jesse	Host	[Volume decreases and continues under the dialogue.] That's the end of another episode of Bullseye. Bullseye is created from the homes of me and the staff of Maximum Fun, in and around greater Los Angeles, California. Here at my house, there was a great triumph. I figured out how to put up straight curtain rods on my curved walls and windows. Our show is produced by speaking into microphones. Our senior producer is Kevin Ferguson. Our producers are Jesus Ambrosio and Richard Robey. Our production fellows at Maximum Fun are Tabatha Myers and Bryanna Paz. We get help booking from Mara Davis. Our interstitial music is by DJW, AKA Dan Wally. Our theme song is "Huddle Formation" by the band The Go! Team. Thanks to The Go! Team. Thanks to their label, Memphis Industries. Bullseye is on YouTube, Twitter, and Facebook. You can follow us in any of those places. We will share our interviews with you. And we do hope that if you heard something you enjoyed on this week's show, you'll share it with somebody. I think that's about it. Just remember: all great radio hosts have a signature signoff.
00:15:49	Music	Music	[Volume increases.] We believed we could make it And we did (Take me back) Back in the day I remember when, oh yeah Buddy, do you remember?
00:16:14	Promo	Promo	[Volume decreases.] Speaker: Bullseye with Jesse Thorn is a production of MaximumFun.org and is distributed by NPR.
00:16:21	Music	Music	[Volume increases.] We go back [Song ends.]